MARWAN SAAD

Born in 1983, Marwan has followed in the footsteps of his late father, the legendary logistician Antoine Saad. From a young age, he spent his post-school hours working in the warehouses of Transglobal, starting with basic labor work and gradually working his way up to packing and crating household items and fine arts, forging his own path along the way.

Although Marwan's career path led him to explore the worlds of construction and finance for a decade, his heart always remained with Transglobal. In 2009, he returned to his roots handling the financial management of Transglobal and its sister clearance agency before taking on the full load in 2014.

With his keen eye for innovation and his dedication to excellence, Marwan has rejuvenated both companies into market leaders in Lebanon. He continues to devote his time, effort, and resources to taking Transglobal to its rightful place as a global player in the logistics industry.

When not busy with the books or setting the groundwork for a new expansion, Marwan can be found enjoying family time and showering them with love.

His meticulousness, self-discipline, and pursuit of perfectionism are not limited to his professional life. These qualities also result in hosting the most exceptional gatherings in town.

ANTHONY MAKARY

Starting off in the United Arab Emirates, he has traveled across the Middle East and Africa to take on exciting appointments. From metro and railway projects to pipelines, power plants, and oil fields, he successfully led some of the most exceptional projects in unusual locations.

His passion for innovative problem-solving and strategic planning has not only led to his professional success but has also earned him the recognition and appreciation of many.

Anthony never backs down from a challenge and thrives on stretching his limits, both professionally and personally.
